The modern design of Kiwayu emerges strongly on the single level deck which provides comfortable and safe passages from the aft to the forward guest cockpit.

Her Raised Saloon configuration allows light to flood into the interior through panoramic windows, hull portlights and a doublewide electrically operated companionway.

Kiwayu features generously wide aft sections and an open transom that ensures an ample deck area and abundant interior volumes, elements that are a real plus for any performance cruiser.

Her telescopic keel guarantees access to shallower harbors and bays and excellent stability and sail carrying capability, without compromising the interior layout.

The ample and protected guest cockpit, with dining and sunbathing areas, is well separate from the aft crew cockpit that concentrates most of the maneuvering gear. This area is an ideal maneuvering space with independent, direct access to crew quarters without passing through the guests area. A dodger, bimini with removable side panels and a boom-extended awning, allow maximum flexibility for protecting and shading the guests cockpit and the sunbathing area.

Kiwayu stands out for a range of features that make her the ideal yacht for comfortable cruising. The fully equipped guest cockpit has a coffee table with a cool box and two deck fridges.

Kiwayu's tender garage accommodates a Williams Sport Jet 435 tender plus storage space for toys and equipment, an exceptional feature for a yacht this size. Hydraulically retractable carbon gangway makes for easy boarding from the quay.

A custom electric dumbwaiter from the galley to the cockpit makes for efficient serving and clearing.

Kiwayu's interior features a four-cabin interior arrangement with master cabin forward, VIP guest cabin forward and TV lounge area forward of the saloon and two additional guest cabins with twin beds are located aft of the saloon.

Crew quarters, galley and nav station are in the aftermost section of the interior, allowing maximum privacy for guests and crew.

The main saloon is a light, bright open space where eight to ten people can relax and converse in comfort on couches or at the dining table.

Immediately fore of the living area an ample studio/TV area flawlessly separates the main saloon from the owner's private area.

The master cabin, in the quietest area of the yacht, has a wide and comfortable bed, handy shelves and drawers, a comfortable sofa and a well-lit en suite. The same attention to privacy, luxury, comfort and details that are used in the master cabin are found throughout the entire yacht.

A VIP cabin forward of the saloon features a queen-sized bed. Two more twin guest cabins are located aft of the saloon. All guest cabins are en suite for privacy and functionality. Guests can also enjoy a highly sophisticated and integrated entertainment system with AMX controller.

The crew area aft is an efficient living and working environment for five to six and includes three cabins and two heads. Galley, mess area and nav station layout have been studied carefully to favour the movement of crew about their various tasks.

The area is served by a dedicated companionway to ensure the privacy of owners and their guests.
